

Description

Catasetum is an epiphytic orchid (a plant that lives by riding on other plants). This type of orchid is found in the Americas with the highest number of species found in Brazil.

Adaptation The growth of this plant in Indonesia is very easy and tends to like planting media with good porosity (aeration) so as to produce very good root growth. Planting media such as fern board, Pine Bark (pine bark) , hydroton, Spagnum moss are usually used in planting this type of orchid.

Care Tips

Catasetum does not like the condition of the growing media with high humidity so that the best position for planting is affixed.
