

Flower arrangements in 2025 are predicted to reflect evolving trends in the world of design and aesthetics, with particular attention to color, style and more natural elements. The Central Executive Board of the Indonesian Flower Arrangers Association (DPP IPBI) on October 16 2025 held demonstrations, seminars and flower arranging competitions with the theme Flower Arrangement Trend which was held at the Jakarta Design Center (JDC). On this occasion, participants from IPBI DPD/DPC representatives throughout Indonesia displayed their best work which will become a trend in the coming year. Sri Sulastri, one of the participants from the IPBI DPC Cianjur district, displayed a flower arrangement sent for a Golden Wedding Celebration Greeting, an arrangement made to highlight the nuances of a combination of gold colors in harmony with a natural colored wooden flower vase.

Some 2025 trends that may be popular this year include:

- 1. Minimalist and Organic A simpler style, using local and seasonal flowers. Flowers with a natural shape and not too tidied up will be the main choice. This design emphasizes natural beauty without being too forced.
- 2. Soft Pastel Colors Pastel colors such as mint, lavender, peach and baby blue will still dominate. However, more soft and elegant color combinations with touches of neutral colors such as cream or gray will also be a trend.
- 3. Long Lasting Flowers and Preserved Flowers The use of preserved flowers or dried flowers will become increasingly popular. Apart from being environmentally friendly, this type of flower also gives an elegant impression and can last longer, so it is widely used in decorating weddings or important events.