

Floricultural products are products which part or all of them can be used to create beauty, beauty and comfort in a closed or open space. This product, which is one of the horticultural commodities, has high economic value and has very bright prospects as a leading product for exports as well as for the domestic market.